

It has always been about a journey of exploring and seeing things in a different way. A life full of adventure, beautiful places, interesting humans and vibrant flavours emerging from the path that unfolds. Sports have coloured everything in such a way that made it possible to understand and see more. The interaction with people whilst practicing and enjoying so many sports, is unique.

Each step towards a new goal that we set, makes our current beginning... so exciting.

"The joy of being a beginner"

We all love doing something...by doing, means that we are moving and like water that runs constantly we keep on exploring places. We see, hear, smell, touch, experience new things. We become fresh again...it's like being reborn. Life is constantly moving and every day is a unique day and this Monday it will never be like any other Monday. The same goes for all the days. The moment we set ourselves in a position to be beginners, we are in the present and realisation that we don't know it all. We become humble, we remove our shield and prepare for adventure. At the same time, we are learning and learning is life. Don't wait for the perfect time and step into a new beginning, even if your friends ain't joining. New friends will be found in the place that you will be going to...like water, gently run, drop, fly...see new places with a fresh eye. We are all beginners, in what we are actually trying to learn, achieve, reach & break through. The perfect time...beg your inner and become a winner!
